Drawing heavily from human resources management, law and industrial relations, Labour Law effectively deals with all issues arising in the relations between workers and employees. Based on government laws and regulations, these laws delineate the rights & responsibilities of both workers & employers, specific grievance mechanisms, dispute resolution, union-management and negotiation and so forth. Law Courses in India and abroad also touch on human resources management with specific issues on industrial relations and maintaining successful relationships between employee & company.

You should more focus on Labour Law and Industrial law in your curriculum. It will help in enhancing career possibilities of employees.
